Jap General Homma Was Here With Prince

Lieut. Gen. Homma, Japanese leader reported in Washington to be with Japanese reinforcements landing in the Philippines, is believed here to be Gen. Masaharu Homma who accompanied Prince Chichibu, brother of the Emperor of Japan, when he passed through British Columbia in 1937 en route to the coronation of the King in London.

When newsmen boarded the liner bearing Chichibu, they were met by Gen. Homma who handed them a typewritten sheet with a message from the prince.

Homma barred an interview and photographs of the royal couple, but relented when the reporters objected.

Conscription Plebiscite Ordered

Government Asks To Be Released From 'Commitments'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians will be asked by means of a plebiscite to release the government "from any obligations arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service," it was revealed in the speech from the Throne at the opening of Parliament this afternoon.

The speech, read by the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General, gave no details as to the date of the plebiscite or other plans for an all-out war effort, but details were promised later. (Text of Speech Page 2.)

"You will be advised of the means the government proposes to adopt to effect as complete as possible a mobilization of the material resources and manpower of the country in direct furtherance of a total national effort," the speech stated.

There would be substantial increases in the armed forces and in food and munitions production, the speech promised.

"The increase in the armed forces will involve an expansion of the establishment of the Canadian army overseas," it continued.

Warning was given that members would be asked to vote appropriations for war purposes "on an unprecedented scale," for the expansion and maintenance of the armed forces and for production.

Rumors Confirmed By Announcement

In announcing the plebiscite the speech confirmed rumors which have been increasingly current in recent weeks.

It was assumed the expression "past commitments" referred to the Prime Minister's pledge, given in the House of Commons before the war and since that his administration would never initiate legislation to compel Canadians to fight outside of Canada.

The Governor-General came to Parliament Hill in the bright sun of a mild winter day to carry out the time-honored ceremonies of a formal opening.

But there was none of the glitter of dress uniforms, guard of honor and artillery firing of royal salutes, all that pageantry

Sicily Pounded In R.A.F. Sweep

LONDON (CP)—British bombers in the Mediterranean basin are launching out with a heavy offensive, the Air Ministry news service reported today, apparently designed to circumvent a possible Axis thrust against Malta or Axis attempts to strengthen retreating armies in Libya.

The weight of the attacks on Sicilian air-bases was marked by a 10-hour raid Tuesday night when waves after waves of Wellington bombers swept in from the sea and blasted at the Catania airdrome.

The news service said pilots reported many direct hits on runways and buildings, and said numerous Axis aircraft were destroyed on the ground.

Meanwhile, with an improvement in the weather in north Africa, R.A.F. heavy and medium bombers are harassing Axis lines of communication with forces seeking to dig in west of El Aghela.

Report Japs Sketch C.N.R. Yards

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton police said today they are investigating a report that two Japanese have been seen lurking in the Canadian National Railways yards at Suburban Calder and making sketches of the railway roundhouse.

Police officers searched the area but failed to find any trace of the Japanese. Police added that with air training schools operated in the vicinity, under the Commonwealth Plan, a sharp vigil will be maintained.

Cross-Channel Shelling

LONDON (CP)—German long range guns fired across the Straits of Dover today for three hours from their positions on the Nazi-held French coast.

Premier's Speech Of 1939 Recalled

First commitment made by the government against conscription of men for service overseas was given by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a speech during debate in the House of Commons March 30, 1939, when there were heavy increases in defence estimates.

He said: "The present government believes that conscription of men for overseas service would not be a necessary or effective step. Let me say that so long as this government is in power no such measure will be enacted."

Mr. King repeated this pledge at the special war session Sept. 8, 1939, when he said:

"I wish now to repeat the undertaking I gave Parliament on behalf of the government on March 30, last."

When the National Resources Mobilization Act was being considered in the House June 17, 1940, the Prime Minister again declared "that no measure for the conscription of men for overseas will be introduced by the present administration."

Last November 12, during a short session of the House of Commons, in a general discussion of the war, Mr. King said: "But so far as conscription for service overseas is concerned in the armed forces of Canada, that question was submitted to the people of Canada at the last general election, an election which was held in wartime (March, 1940) and in which the leaders of all political parties made their statements to the electorate, and the people of Canada decided against conscription for overseas service."

"So far as I am concerned, without any consultation of the people on that subject, I do not intend to take the responsibility of supporting any policy of conscription for service overseas."

Heavy Jap Force Drives on Batan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Japanese have renewed their heavy attacks on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's line on Batan Peninsula in the Philippines, the War Department announced today, with Japanese forces on the island of Luzon estimated to total roughly 200,000 men.

Enemy reinforcements are being landed, said a department communiqué, in Lingayen Gulf and Subic Bay, and the entire Japanese 14th Army under Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, with a number of other units, is now on Luzon.

Hostile air activity in Luzon during the last 24 hours was light, the department said, but 17 enemy bombers attacked the city of Cebu, on the island of the same name, about half way between Luzon and Mindanao, last Sunday.

The War Department said Homma, 54, was a veteran of the Japanese war in China, and a former director of military intelligence for the Japanese.

Pilot Bails Out As Plane Blazes

Bailing out when his plane caught fire this morning at 8:45 a sergeant-pilot of the R.C.A.F. stationed at Patricia Bay saved his life as the aircraft crashed and disappeared beneath the water. He was rescued by an R.C.A.F. crash-boat.

The plane was in difficulty soon after taking off. The pilot was flying solo.

This afternoon efforts were being made to recover the plane.

Japs Invade Island in Drive Toward Australia

MELBOURNE (AP)—Rabaul, capital of New Britain, reported today that 11 ships, including warships, had been sighted off neighboring Watom Island, and immediately following this report communications with Rabaul ceased.

STATIONS DESTROYED

It was presumed here that New Britain island had been evacuated by military forces in anticipation of a prospective Japanese landing, and that the radio and telegraph stations had been demolished in the "scorched earth" manner.

The last word from Rabaul came at 4 p.m.

If the implications of the Rabaul message are fulfilled the Japanese are in the process of their first invasion of Australian territory. The island of New Britain, of which Rabaul is the capital, is an important segment of the Bismarck Archipelago.

New Britain lies east of British New Guinea and is 800 miles northeast of the nearest point of Australia proper, that is, Cape York Peninsula. Rabaul is 1,850 nautical miles from Sydney, on the southeast coast of the sub-continent.

The Japanese flotilla was sighted 30 to 40 miles off Watom Island, which is 15 miles north-west of Rabaul, about half an hour before the Rabaul radio sent its last message.

(An Australian broadcast recorded in New York from the Australian Associated Press said it now was believed likely the Japanese would try to effect landings Friday.)

AUSTRALIANS WARNED

Acting Prime Minister F. M. Forde and Air Minister Arthur Drakeford warned Australians of full scale military attack may be imminent, aimed at establishing bases from which the Japanese could direct an offensive against the Australian mainland.

The Japanese have carried out mass air attacks on Allied islands off the Australian mainland. Those raids usually are preludes to landing attempts.

Mr. Forde, the army minister who is acting for Prime Minister John Curtin during the latter's brief vacation, told the people of Australia:

"The time has arrived when the government expects every Australian man and woman to take up his or her place, whether at work in the munitions factories or in Australia's fighting services. Never before, he said, had Australia faced so grave a threat.

Hurricanes Blast Raiders

Malaya Defenders Seize Initiative

HOW JAPS MOVE DOWN MALAYA... Dates show progress of Japan's six-move drive down the Malay Peninsula toward Singapore.

Associated Press

British Jungle troops, seizing the initiative for the first time in the Malayan campaign, were reported smashing at Japan's main invasion transport in a full-scale counter-offensive 70 miles north of Singapore today, while reinforcements of 350-mile-an-hour Hurricane fighters swung into action over Singapore itself.

Five raiding Japanese planes were shot down and a sixth was damaged over Singapore today and British fliers took a heavy toll of invasion transport. One class is equipped with 32 machine guns, another has four light cannon jutting from its wings in addition to machine guns.

Singapore Raids As Bad as London

Singapore itself, under almost incessant aerial assault, grimly counted a toll of 304 killed and 725 wounded in Wednesday's 100-plane Japanese attack—comparable with the worst raids on London.

A communiqué said 625 wounded were admitted to hospitals and 100 others treated at first aid posts. But the beleaguered island colony was cheered by the arrival of the powerfully gunned Hurricane pursuit fighters.

Coincidentally a Chinese army spokesman reported that fear of attack by Allied bombers had spurred 30,000 to 40,000 Japanese to leave parts of Japan for Shanghai and other centres along the lower Yangtze valley.

Land Battle Rages 70 Miles Northward

The big land battles for southern Malaya were fought roughly 70 miles from Singapore near the east and west coasts of Johore.

On the east, British forces fell back from Endau, 85 miles from Singapore, and ambushed the Japanese advance somewhere north of Mersing, 20 miles down the coast.

On the west, the main battle has developed in the hills around Bukit Payong, inland and nine miles northeast of Batu Pahat, which is 60 miles northwest of Singapore.

The main force of the Imperial troops was hurled against the Japanese in a major test there, only patrols diverting to engage apparently lesser Japanese units reported infiltrating down the coast into the Batu Pahat section of the British flank.

The drive was expected to relieve Australian and Indian troops cut off farther north in the Muar River region. Some small groups of these soldiers already have fought their way through the jungles and Japanese patrols to rejoin their comrades.

Despite the heavy toll taken by Japanese planes and anti-aircraft guns, Japanese bombers were back over Singapore today, following up the destructive onslaughts which killed 591 and injured more than 1,000 in Singapore during the last two days.

Britain's fighter plane reinforcements, however, were making the raids steadily costlier to the Japanese.

(Informants in London said the Hurricane put into the fight for Malaya probably were the new model—Hurricane II—latest development of the all-metal single seater which British sources say has the greatest fire power of any plane of its kind.)

(With a top speed rated at more than 350 miles an hour, the new Hurricane which sometimes carries two bombs slung under its wings, has two types of armament. One class is equipped with 32 machine guns, another has four light cannon jutting from its wings in addition to machine guns.)

The decision to come to grips in force with the Japanese was made at a war council of generals in the shade of a rubber tree and developments followed rapidly.

Dispatches from the front said British artillery opened the Malayan counter-offensive Wednesday with a heavy curtain of fire. Two waves of R.A.F. fighters then swept over the area, machine-gunning Japanese patrols, and were immediately followed by charging infantrymen.

B.C. to Help Ottawa Remove Japanese

The B.C. Department of Labor is prepared to lend employees and facilities to aid any work undertaken in this province by Japanese labor, Hon. George Pearson, Minister of Labor said today.

The Ottawa Department of Labor will arrange and supervise the work projects that will be undertaken by Japanese removed from vulnerable areas on the B.C. coast.

"My understanding is that the federal department of labor will be in full charge of work done by the Japanese, while the R.C.M.P. and military authorities will be important cogs in the machinery for removal," Mr. Pearson said.

Increase Pensions

LONDON (CP)—Britain will increase war pensions to disabled members of the armed forces and the civil defence services proportionate to the increased cost of living, Sir Walter Womersley, pensions minister, announced today.

Details of the new scheme, which will take effect Feb. 1, are not yet available, Sir Walter said, however, that a man suffering 100 per cent disability would receive 37s 6d (about $7.50 weekly) compared with the present 34s 2d. Officers' rates will be higher.

Gift From Poles

LONDON (CP)—Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, Polish Prime Minister and army commander-in-chief, was received at Buckingham Palace today by the King and Queen. The BBC said he presented the Queen with a plaque on behalf of the Polish troops in Russia.

Red Ski Troops Outflank Nazis Behind Lines

By ROBERT MAGIDOFF
MOSCOW (AP)—While Red army artillerymen blasted at the rear of a German army reeling back from Moshalsk on the old Napoleon road from Moscow, dispatches from the northern and southern wings of the 2,000-mile front told of the continuing, forward surge of the Russian offensive.

Russian ski troops, carried on propeller-driven sledges, were reported to be operating west of Borodino, the old Napoleonic battlefield a dozen miles west of Moshalsk, in stinging pursuit of the fleeing Germans.

SPEEDY SLASHERS

Skimming the countryside over waist-deep snow, these Red army forces were said to be principally scouts slashing at the flanks of the German retreat toward Vyazma, which is regarded as the site of the next German stand against the Russian central front offensive.

The Germans were said to be seeking cover also from the bitterest week of Russia's winter so far, the temperature going as low as 40 below.

The front reports indicated the Germans were exhausting every resource in manpower in an effort to stabilize the vast front.

Among prisoners taken in one sector were soldiers just arrived from France who said they had come to Smolensk by train and were carried thence by plane to a point the Russians identified as "R" to help the Germans to make a stand.

The Moscow newspaper Pravda said that in the Leningrad sector of the Leningrad front the Germans were bringing in worn-out detachments from other sectors in their desperation.

TAKE NUMEROUS VILLAGES
Despite these efforts, the Red army drive on the Leningrad front continued, with the Germans withdrawing from many villages in the last three days under infantry pressure backed by deadly artillery action. Southeast of Leningrad the Germans were said to have been ejected from 27 villages in a single day.

On the southwestern front, that is, before Kharkov, the Russians acknowledged the foe had counter-attacked in some sectors, but these thrusts were beaten back and the Red army rolled on. With Russian airmen co-operating, dispatches said, 1,000 Germans were killed in a single engagement on the southwestern front.

'VICTORY AHEAD'

The Soviet army's cry on the heels of the retreating centre forces, at least seven miles west of recaptured Moshalsk, was: "Road to full victory lies ahead."

The midday Russian communiqué told of a southern front fight in which 1,400 German officers and men were killed and said that on the Moshalsk front, the pursuing Russians had captured 11 German field guns, 53 motor vehicles and 15 motorcycles.

In biting-cold weather the heavily-clad troops of Lt. Gen. Leonid Govorov pressed the advantage of their greatest victory on the central front.

MADE MILE A DAY

The frontal offensive had gained a mile since it was announced Wednesday the invaders had been driven to the six-mile mark beyond Moshalsk.

Russian dispatches to London said the road to Smolensk, reported German field headquarters on the Dnieper, was crowded. Red army artillery was reported to be hurling big shells into the German ranks.

British analysts said shattering the Moshalsk salient put Russia in a position to strike her next major blow along the Donets basin front, from Kharkov to the sea of Azov. They expressed belief possession of that area was vital for Soviet defence against a new German attack expected in the spring.

Rommel's Tanks Stage Sortie

CAIRO (AP)—Lashing out from the El Aghella arpa with most of the tanks still remaining to him, the Axis commander, Lt. Gen. Erwin Rommel, has struck about 10 miles into British imperial positions, the Middle East Command announced today, but an informed source held this was probably little more than a feeler stroke.

Besides testing the strength of the advanced columns facing him in the last Axis foothold in Cyrenaica, it was said, Rommel might also have been seeking to relieve pressure on his El Aghella positions and thus gain time to consolidate them for a real stand.

The commentator said: "he would be 'most surprised' if Rommel's move meant the Germans and their Italian comrades had taken the initiative or that a real counter-offensive had started."

The British communiqué referred to the counter-thrust Wednesday as a "reconnaissance in force," with three strong Axis columns favored by low visibility in their drive 10 miles east of the line running south from Mersa Brega.

Although the commentator said there was no indication Rommel had attempted a real counter-offensive with reinforcements, he acknowledged that the chief concern of the Middle East R.A.F. in recent days had been to block eastward movement of supplies through Tripolitania.

The official Cairo report was brief.

Text of Throne Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—Following is the text of the Speech from the Throne opening the third session of Canada's 19th Parliament this afternoon:

Honorable members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

There no longer can be any question as to the character and scope of the present war. It is a worldwide conflict between irreconcilable forces. On every continent, including the confines of our own, and on all oceans, forces that aim at world domination oppose forces that seek the preservation of freedom. In every quarter of the globe, civilization is confronted by savagery.

The conflict can have but one of two outcomes. Either tyranny, based on terror and brutality, must be overthrown; or the free peoples of the world, one and all, slowly but eventually, will be reduced to a state of bondage. Upon the outcome depends, for generations, the future well-being of mankind.

Increase in Forces And in Production

In accordance with the government's policy of a total national effort for total war, you will be asked to approve a balanced program for further increases in the armed forces and in the production of munitions of war and of foodstuffs. The increase in the armed forces will involve an expansion of the establishment of the Canadian army overseas. You will also be asked, as an integral part of Canada's direct war effort, to approve a contribution to Britain of vast quantities of munitions, foodstuffs and supplies.

Selective Service To Be Extended

The government's policy of national selective service will be extended, as generally and rapidly as may be necessary, to effect the orderly and efficient employment of the men and women of Canada, for the varied purposes of war. You will be advised of the means the government proposes to adopt, to effect as complete as possible a mobilization of the material resources, and manpower of the country in direct furtherance of a total national effort.

My advisers believe that the magnitude and balanced nature of Canada's war effort is being obscured and impaired by controversy concerning commitments with respect to the methods of raising men for military service which were made prior to the spread of the war to all parts of the world.

Will Seek Release From Commitments

The government is of the opinion that, at this time of greatest crisis in the world's history, the administration, subject only to its responsibility to Parliament, should in this connection and irre-

British Air Secretary Says

Army's Task to Start Continental Offensive

LONDON (CP)—The army's main task is to organize a continental offensive, Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons today in opening debate on the adequacy of airfield defence against invasion of the British Isles.

He said the R.A.F.'s new air-drome defence regiment would be "second to none." In British usage the regiment is not a fixed number of men, but includes a variable number of battalions. The new airfield defence units are spoken of as a regiment.

Today's debate was but the warm-up for the forthcoming three-day general debate, which Mr. Churchill himself will open with probably the longest statement of his career. A vote of confidence may be requested during the debate.

Sir Archibald, as government spokesman in today's debate, explained the R.A.F. had formed its new air-drome defence units to relieve the army of that "onerous" protection job.

The main task of the army is not defence," he said, "but to organize from its strictly limited manpower resources the greatest possible striking force for offensive operations on the (European) continent."

UNDER ARMY DIRECTION

He added that responsibility for ground defence of airfields remained, as before, with the army, but that the R.A.F. had assumed command under army direction of forces stationed on the fields themselves.

In this, he said, "there has been the closest co-operation between the army and the R.A.F."

Responding to criticism over repeated losses of landing fields in Greece, Crete and now May-laya, he denied that efforts to deal with the problem had been "hindered or at all affected by any service jealousies which are being alleged in some quarters to exist."

He said the Air Ministry had created a directorate of ground defence to study the matter as early as June, 1940, and added: "Probably few people realize how far we have already traveled from the extraordinarily and even alarmingly low standard of air-drome defence which existed."

Successful reports were given. Arrangements were made for the members to serve refreshments at the annual congregational meeting next Monday evening. Plans were made for a Valentine tea in the church schoolroom Feb. 13, at 3.

The next meeting of the W.A. will be held Tuesday, Feb. 24, at the home of Mrs. W. F. Emery, 1563 Gladstone Avenue.

Mrs. G. A. Butler was elected president of the Belmont United Women's Association at the meeting at the home of Mrs. H. W. Kerley, 2023 Belmont Avenue.

Other officers elected were: Honorary president, Miss R. Cooney; vice-president, Mrs. L. Benson; secretary, Mrs. W. Tait; assistant secretary, Mrs. F. Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. Owens; treasurer, Mrs. J. Calderhead; press correspondent, Mrs. W. F. Emery; paragon committee, Mrs. A. Parfitt and Mrs. F. Smith. Rev. H. W. Kerley acted as chairman during the election, and conducted the dein this country after the Battle of France."

The Air Ministry, he said, "is quite alive to the risk of sabotage" on air-dromes and so far none has been committed, indicating "our counter-measures are adequate."

CRITICISM CONTINUES

Discussion followed Sir Archibald's statement. His description of the new units to be managed by the R.A.F. under army direction apparently failed to satisfy critics who recently have been crying alarm over losses of airfields in the war so far.

"The new scheme is complicated and based on muddled thinking," contended Col. A. Evans, Conservative, who said he could not agree with the Air Secretary that responsibility between the R.A.F. and the army is "clear cut and defined."

George M. Garro-Jones, Labor, argued the divided command was still the curse of the military system.

"We must get mobile air units consisting of troop carriers, light tank carriers, parachute carriers and even gliders distributed all over the country in small units so that not one of our vital air-dromes is more than 15 minutes away from a strong, counter-attacking air-borne force," he said.

Before Sir Archibald spoke, Prime Minister Churchill indicated the debate would be conducted in secret as soon as it entered operational phases.

Americas Unanimous In Blocking Axis

VOICES CALL OF U.S.—Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles appeals for complete hemispheric unity at Pan-American Conference.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—An agreement in a five-nation committee, including Argentina and Chile, on the much-debated proposal for a concerted diplomatic break with the Axis, opened the way today to a unanimous stand by the 21 American republics against Germany, Italy and Japan.

Participating with Argentina and Chile in working out a four-point compromise resolution were the United States, Brazil and Peru. Little difficulty is expected in obtaining formal approval of the compromise from the remaining 16 nations represented in the conference of foreign ministers of Pan-American republics.

The conference committee on economic co-operation, meanwhile began work on its agenda, topped by separate proposals for American nations to end all financial, commercial and economic dealings with the Axis.

Among recommendations before this committee were proposals for freezing funds of Axis nations and business throughout the Americas and establishing blacklists of individuals and businesses linked with the Axis. The committee also is considering a substitute for the original proposal to establish an all-American general staff. Instead, it was suggested a defence committee be formed—thus avoiding the impression of purely military purposes—with each country naming one representative. The committee would operate at Washington.

Allies Speed Up

LONDON (CP) — The Netherlands East Indies today joined Britain's eastern group supply council created last year to produce and distribute war materials to the best advantage of the Allies in the Orient.

"The association of the Netherlands East Indies in the council's work will complete the pooling of resources and joint action to meet military requirements in the eastern group," a British Foreign Office announcement said.

The council aims at combining in a single program the munitions and military equipment required by all armies in the group, including forces in Malaya and the Mediterranean basin.

It also aims at seeing a good share of the requirements met by increasing production of countries within the group.

Australia May Become Big U.S. Army Base

WASHINGTON—Australia, to most Americans still "terra incognita," may shortly become a military base for an A.E.F. From its northernmost point, Port Darwin, an A.E.F. could take off for an expedition to the Philippines, or more likely the Netherlands Indies, should they fall to the Japanese.

Australia's Navy Minister Mackin already has told overjoyed Australians that U.S. troops "are coming as soon as possible." Secretary of War Stimson announces that an expeditionary force, destination not stated, will be ready this year.

Here is the picture of the "down under" continent as a base for military operations of our troops—troops which may have to depend upon a friendly continent, with harbor and air-fields at Port Darwin, only 450 miles from the Netherlands Indies.

A standard route to this continent is through the Panama Canal, then south, finally west to Australia's populous east coast. Here are the great industrial centres—Brisbane, Sydney, and to the south, Melbourne. Here, too, a Japanese attack would most likely be aimed, and the Australians have strung barbed wire along the beaches. For home defence, a quarter of a million conscripts are in training.

BETTER THAN SIBERIA

As a base for military operations, Australia in many respects is more practicable than Soviet territory, such as Kamchatka Peninsula, to the north of Japan. The climate is not severe. There is plenty of food and clothing—no rationing of either has been necessary. At Port Darwin there is nine months' dry weather a year, a fair harbor, air fields and oil storage facilities.

Australia can't be starved out. There are plenty of resources for her war program—so far costing over $2,000,000,000.

Australian soldiers were called the most formidable of all by German troops in the last war, and their record in the Near East is magnificent recent history. News that they are beginning action around Singapore has bucked up Allied morale tremendously.

But her generous contributions to Allied forces has left Australia in a not too strong position to resist invasion. Loss of the great continent would not mean a loss of tin and rubber; it would mean loss of a valuable base for U.S. offensive operations in the Pacific, a terrific blow to Allied morale.

Hence there would be a dual purpose in sending an A.E.F. to the land of kangaroos and boomerangs, a land which may become well known to youths accustomed to feeding squirrels in Central Park, or pitching fast balls on Kansas City sandlots.

Botanists insist that if the Garden of Eden has been located correctly the famous apple must have been an apricot.

Glimbert was born 25 years ago at Meirheath, Stoke-on-Trent, England and came here several months ago from his native land.

Gallup Poll

Drastic Economic Controls Favored by U.S. Public

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion
PRINCETON, N.J.—Years of study of American public opinion have brought to light three facts which are of great importance as the people of the United States prepare for the years of grim warfare ahead.

1. On most matters of legislation, the public is usually ahead of its legislators. The "limited emergency" period of the last year and a half, the American people have been willing to make more sacrifices than their government has asked them to make. And once more they are ready to do more than they have been called upon to do.

2. All through the "limited emergency" period of the last year and a half, the American people have been willing to make more sacrifices than their government has asked them to make. And once more they are ready to do more than they have been called upon to do.

3. Sentiment for measures involving sacrifices or drastic changes in habits of living is never unanimous. The majority opinion is generally quiet and often obscured by articulate minorities.

Fresh evidence to corroborate those three conclusions is revealed in the results of the latest poll by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

This shows that a substantial majority of the American people are willing to have the government tell any worker in the United States what kind of work he shall do, how many hours he shall work, and what he shall be paid for the duration of the war.

The survey shows that the U.S. public wants the government to tell farmers what kind of crops they shall raise and what prices they shall receive for these crops.

And to tell business men and factory owners just what products they can make and what prices they can charge.

ALL GROUPS AGREED
It is not simply a case of wage-earners favoring controls over some other group, while asking to be "let alone" themselves. All groups—wage-earners, farmers, business men, etc.—vote for controls over themselves, in the interests of winning the war.

This sentiment, indicating the psychological temper with which American democracy approaches the tasks ahead, is revealed in a series of three surveys, as follows:

U.S. SENTIMENT TODAY
"In time of war, should the government have the right to tell factory owners and business men what products they can make and what prices they can charge?"

Yes..... 78%
No..... 12%
Qualified..... 4%
Undecided..... 6%

"In time of war, should the government have the right to tell workers what job they are to work at, what they will be paid, and how many hours they shall work?"

Yes..... 67%
No..... 22%
Qualified..... 4%
Undecided..... 7%

"In time of war, should the government have the right to tell farmers what crops they must raise and what prices they are to get?"

Yes..... 61%
No..... 26%
Qualified..... 4%
Undecided..... 9%

Those few who attached qualifications to their replies said, chiefly, that they wished the type of product or crop to be controlled, but did not wish the price to be regulated or that industrial controls should apply only to factories working on war orders.

The attitude of the public is particularly interesting in view of the price control bill now before Congress—a bill which exempts wages from control and deals gingerly with farm prices. Judging from the institute study, the public is ready to go far beyond Congress in such matters.

In fact, the public has favored legislation similar to Canada's price and wage ceilings since last summer—and by majorities of nearly 2 to 1.

(Editor's Note:—The Gallup Poll of Canada recently reported that Dominion voters were approximately 3 to 1 in favor of the price and wage control program.)

NO FLOODS OF TELEGRAMS
One of the most interesting things about the situation today is that the nature and extent of public thinking on the issue of economic controls cannot be guessed from outward manifestations. There are no citizens' armies marching on Washington to demand regulation, no public rallies, no flood of telegrams pouring in on the legislators.

But this relative calm is deceptive; underneath the sentiment for action is tangible and real.

The situation is very much like that which prevailed when the question of peacetime conscription of U.S. manpower came up in the spring of 1940. Even the most astute political observers were not aware of how far the public had gone in its acceptance of conscription when the institute showed, in early June of that year, that half the voters were in favor of a peacetime draft, and that, by the end of June, the number had increased to 64 per cent.

Within the past year, Britain has adopted a rigid and far-reaching governmental program for control of war production, hours of work, the labor pool, and other factors in her war effort.

Lamb Prices Up, Board Lifts Ceiling
OTTAWA (CP) — Wartime Prices and Trade Board today lifted the price ceiling on spring and summer lamb.

"To assure orderly marketing in all seasons and to safeguard adequate production in 1942," the board ruled:

1. Maximum wholesale prices for frozen lamb carcasses may be increased one cent a pound in January and a further one-quarter cent a pound each month from February to June.

2. Maximum wholesale prices for fresh lamb carcasses commonly known as winter fed (or feed lot) lamb may be increased by amounts up to but not exceeding four cents a pound during the period from January to May.

3. Retail prices may be increased in accordance with normal practice to cover increases in prices paid by retailers.

On Aug. 16 all prices must revert to the maximum established during the basic period of 1941.

N. Vancouver Workers To Get More Pay
Municipal employees of North Vancouver, if an arbitration board recommendation is accepted, will receive pay boosts and a cost-of-living bonus.

Result of the award was made known today by the Department of Labor. On the board were Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, chairman; Jack Price, representing the union, and Jack Loust, representing the municipality.

Pay increases recommended range from $15 a month for the fire department chief and treasurer to $2.50 a month for reserve men.

Bremen, Emden Again Raided

LONDON (CP) — British bombers carried out a raid in force on northwest Germany Wednesday night.

An Air Ministry communique said attacks were made on the ports of Bremen and Emden, air-dromes in Holland and docks at Boulogne. Six British planes are missing.

At the same time, it was said authoritatively an enemy bomber was destroyed off the east coast of England Wednesday night.

ENEMY CLAIMS

BERLIN (German Broadcast Recorded by AP) — A British air raid on the coastal district of northwest Germany Wednesday night was acknowledged today by the high command. Residential quarters were stated to have been bombed, but the high command said there were no civilian casualties, and stated "no military damage was done."

Five of the attacking planes were claimed shot down.

EXCESS PROFITS APPEALS HEARD

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of referees appointed by Finance Minister Isley to assist him in dealing with appeals against excess profits assessments has had 350 appeals referred to it by the Minister, it was stated today, and more than 100 have been reported back.

The profits made by a firm in the four years before the war began are taken as the base and profits made since the war in excess of the pre-war rate are subject to the excess profits tax, which is on a sliding scale. The faster wartime profits increase, the higher is the tax rate imposed.

It is highly important to business that the pre-war base, of standard profits, of taxpayers be representative of the actual earning power of their enterprises. Otherwise, if profits were unduly low in the pre-war years, the increase in wartime profits might result in unjust taxation.

It was to guard against injustices in this connection that the board of referees was established.

The board is under chairmanship of Mr. Justice W. H. Harrison of Saint John, N.B. A small staff is maintained here and continuous hearings are held each week to dispose of claims for the fixing of the base or standard profits of taxpayers. Recommendations of the board are not made public.

M. Justice Harrison said final disposition of claims is made only after thorough review in the district and head offices of the income tax department.

Clark Offered Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Brig. Gen. J. A. Clark of Vancouver was offered an appointment by the federal government, Defence Minister Ralston said in the House of Commons Wednesday.

In answer to a question from Tom Reid, Liberal, New Westminster, Mr. Reid had moved for a copy of all letters, telegrams and other correspondence exchanged between Gen. Clark and the government or any official or department from Sept. 21, 1939, to Sept. 30, 1941, with reference to military matters of appointment.

Col. Ralston did not elaborate on his statement.

Success At Rio

WHILE ARGENTINA AND CHILE, BY reason of the oft-reiterated views of their respective spokesmen, feel obliged to submit the proposal to sever all diplomatic relations with the Axis powers to their parliamentary bodies, the Rio de Janeiro meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the republics which compose the Pan-American Union has proved an outstanding triumph for hemispheric solidarity. Even though some of the nations represented at these deliberations do not operate under the conception of democratic government—some of them are dictatorships with more or less consent of the people—none is under any illusion as to the ultimate program which Hitler and his cohorts have mapped out for their own aggrandizement. They know that Latin America, its hopes and ambitions, would find no place for progressive and peaceful development in a totalitarian world. Such compromises as they will have to make of adjustment by manoeuvre that will have the way for unified action at the earliest possible moment. With 18 nations solidly approving the general plan, of course, the implications of continued adherence to the principle of isolation by the remaining two left a substantial impression. It would have meant political and economic defiance for less than 20,000,000 against ten times that number in this Western Hemisphere—a factor not to be lightly disregarded.

It may be an exaggeration of fact to say that the product of the conference at Rio de Janeiro is as telling a blow to Hitler and his "utensils" in Rome as a great military defeat. There is a vast difference between the peaceful deliberations of politicians and statesmen in a land so far untouched by the visibly-brutal fingers of war and the clash of tanks and artillery; but if there is one who has watched the proceedings at the Brazilian capital in the last few days with more apprehension and fear than any other in the world, that man is Adolf Hitler. For years his "technicians" in the realm of political and economic intrigue had assiduously cultivated all the countries of Latin America. Every process of "softening" had been employed to the fullest extent, some of it brazenly open, some of it following that insidious pattern with which all are now familiar. And a good deal of it had been attended by conspicuous success. But the virtually unanimous resolve of the conference will write the final chapter to totalitarianism's infamous campaign on this hemisphere. From now on, the 21 republics represented at Rio de Janeiro, led in their decision by the United States and the nations of Central America, will present a solid front and play such part as may be allotted to them in the "grand strategy" of the United Nations.

Brilliant Speech

EVEN THE BITTEREST CYNIC AND skeptic will agree that in one of the most brilliant speeches to which the British Columbia Legislature has listened for many a moon, Hon. H. G. Perry, the new Minister of Education, yesterday afternoon engrossed the attention of both sides of the House—as well as the packed galleries—with a masterly interpretation of coalition principles and a craftsmanlike expose of those "who use the sheep's clothing of social reform as a covering for the wolf of state capitalism, bureaucracy, and, ultimately, totalitarianism and the negation of personal liberty."

Long regarded—and not without justification—as the Edmund Burke of British Columbia, because of his ardent and able championship of the real principles of Liberalism, Mr. Perry turned back the pages of British political history to show that until today coalitions have frequently sounded the death-knell of the party which conceived them; but proved his argument that both parties to the present fusion of the two major political bodies were animated by motives which transcended personal or party ambition. His analysis of the differences between the political and economic philosophies of the old-line schools of thought and the official opposition shone a penetrating light on proposals which, while allegedly based on social security for all, in fact, were intended to sanction a species of streamlined despotism.

Bouquets and Politics

NOW THAT THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT has taken the necessary steps to deal with what is familiarly known as the Japanese problem in British Columbia—in a manner, incidentally, which should give adequate protection, to enemy subjects as well as to our own people and their vital interests—there is very little more to be said about the matter. We note, however, the Vancouver Daily Province takes New Westminster's Mayor Hume to task for declaring in an interview, in his capacity as chairman of the special provincial committee on Orientals, that to Hon. J. A. MacKenzie belongs the credit for the success which attended this body's mission to Ottawa. Here are His Worship's words as quoted by the mainland contemporary: "If it had not been for Ian, I don't believe we could have done it."

Nobody will be disposed to question seriously the solicitude which the Minister of Pensions and National Health ought to have manifested, and presumably did, for the safety and security of the province he represents in the cabinet of Mr. Mackenzie King. But it assuredly would be drawing the long bow to suggest that he had to fight the whole ministry and persuade its full membership that a menace really did exist in this far western province. Nor do we swallow the somewhat sweeping contention of the Vancouver newspaper when it charges Mayor Hume, by implication, with giving the province's ministerial representative a "political build-up." It would probably have been more generous to have interpreted His Worship's remark as reflecting satisfaction in the committee's achievement—that it had obtained action for which the Vancouver Daily Province did not press very hard.

In any event, if compliments are in order, Hon. George Pearson, British Columbia's able Minister of Labor and Provincial Secretary, is entitled to a share. Lieut.-Colonel Macgregor Macintosh, a member of the committee and former Conservative member of the Legislature for the Islands, told interviewers on his return here that "without Mr. Pearson I doubt if we would have been as successful as we were—he was a tower of strength." And the minister himself, the personification of modesty, observed that "there is an impression in Ottawa that this is not a serious problem." He implemented the strong representations which Premier Hart and Attorney-General Maitland had previously made in person. However, as the Dominion government has agreed to be guided by the military officials of this district—who know their job thoroughly—all should be well.

Protests for CBC

IN A LETTER TO THE VANCOUVER Sun a "disappointed listener" voices more objections to the programs which the CBC retails to the radio audience. He (or she) objects to the broadcasting of plays in which profane language is used, and cannot understand why "Morning Devotions" must be accompanied by "canned music," leaving the speaker "scant time to deliver a hurried message." But here is the letter-writer's main protest:

"The marked general deterioration in CBC-CBR programs. Hackneyed songs and tunes, the walling or keening of singers of 'blues,' the sobbing of the soap-artists, the incorrect, indistinct reading from script by so many, the substitution of a bedtime story for 'Britain Speaks,' which was almost the only intellectual pabulum offered daily, the unbridled repetition and consequent cheapening of the words of Roosevelt or Churchill. Cannot the CBC do better than this?"

The foregoing may be supplemented by the suggestion that the early morning news bulletin from Vancouver cannot by any stretch of the imagination be called a workmanlike job. And we in the west still have to wait until 9.30 in the evening for the BBC newscast—rebroadcast from Winnipeg two hours after it is received there direct from London.

Private Barrow

NOTHING IN THE PROFESSIONAL career of Joseph Louis Barrow, amazing though it was, became him like the leaving of it. Joe Louis has been a fair, clean respecting citizen outside it. Not only those of his race, but all sports-loving folk, have reason to be proud of his conduct, a pride heightened by his climaxing of an unparalleled championship career by giving his entire share of the proceeds of his last fight to navy relief and then enlisting as a private in the army. He has set an example to Americans of his race, and to all good citizens. They will wish him as good luck in his new career as Private Barrow as they had in his long career as Joe Louis, heavyweight champion.

The Chinese will have everything ironed out when all the Japs have been taken to the laundry.

"The world is big enough for the war to be fought out without using Elre as a battlefield," says Elre's Defence Co-ordinator Frank Aiken. That is what the Scandinavian countries thought, and Holland and Belgium and the Balkans. It is what many on this continent seemed to think until Japan attacked Pearl Harbor.

WHAT WE OWE THE RUSSIANS

From Ottawa Journal
The campaign of the Canadian Red Cross—undertaken at the request of the Dominion government—to raise in this country $500,000 for Russian medical relief offers Canadians an opportunity to make practical expression of their appreciation of Russian gallantry, their understanding of the plain fact that the Russians are fighting for us—as we are fighting for them.

The Russians have suffered colossal casualties, and the wounded and sick in their armies probably can be counted in hundreds of thousands. Demands upon their medical services have been very heavy, and threaten to exhaust their supplies. Thus it is to save the lives of Russian soldiers that this money is being raised. It will be spent in Canada for medical supplies, and the goods will be shipped to Russia.

Official regulations governing the campaign forbid personal appeals and this naturally makes it more difficult to raise the money. But it is lawful for every reader to take this as a personal appeal, and desirable that he should. Cheques from this area should be sent to the Red Cross Society and marked "Russian Aid."

Editorial Diary

DRAKES DRUMS ON THE PRAIRIES

SOMEWHERE deep down in the make-up of young Manitoba manhood there is an urge to go down to the sea in ships, writes Sandford Bliq of the Winnipeg Free Press. It has long been dormant. It needed only the hour and the inspiration to spur a stirring sense of service into action. The war provided both.

Despite the glamour of service a-wing and the intriguing appeal of a mechanized modern army, the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve receives far more applicants than it can possibly admit into its ranks. Men who have sailed nothing larger than a canoe on a prairie lake, who have never seen the sea, whose days have been passed amid the quiet ways of the Manitoba countryside; among wheat and horses and young grasses and friendly homesteads, gleaming gold and autumn rich in tapestries of glowing color . . . these men from the land and of the land, strangely respond to the rousing urge of what Masefield calls "Sea-Fever," and the wheels kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shakings, and a grey mist on the sea's face and a grey dawn breaking . . .

Those whose early steps were laid by sands and waves murmuring on beaches, by harbors and ships and calms and gales can never escape from the poetry of the ocean and its wide horizons. They feel captive in industrialized centres. But they are sensitive to an affinity between ocean and prairie. Each in its diversified elements has the same atmosphere of wide-open spaciousness, of distance, of sunsets on the skyline's remote rim and of adventure and discovery.

The prairie boy who puts aside plow, tractor and fields of wheat for hawser, anchor and a warship's rolling deck is inspired by something that runs deep. Perhaps it is the stirring of the pioneer spirit of the generations who sailed the seas and sought adventure in the early settlement of Canada; the spirit of the Pilgrim Fathers; of the men who sailed with Frobiisher and Drake, Raleigh and Nelson and Beatty. Above all, it is the urge for action, for quick service on Canada's ocean defence lines and the lure of high daring.

The steady flow of Manitobans into the navy has been materially facilitated by the presence in Winnipeg of a keen and efficient Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. The existence of such a unit when the war began was opportune. Manitobans who gallantly served afloat in the first World War inaugurated the reserve in 1923. They persevered in face of difficulties and carried to their cause the enthusiasm and inspiration that has built the high tradition which is returning a rich dividend in this hour of the Empire's greatest need.

LOOK BEFORE YOU THEORIZE

CHARLES DARWIN working long on the facts of natural history before he adopted the theory of evolution to correlate and explain them, and even longer before he conceived his own theory of natural selection to account for the process of evolution. This is pointed out by Prof. William E. Ritter of the University of California in the current issue of the technical journal, Science.

In this, Prof. Ritter continues, Darwin differed from many of his zealous followers, who have a tendency to theorize first and seek supporting facts afterwards. He recalls receiving something of a shock on being "called down" by some zoologists for quoting Darwin on this point, his critics' view seeming to be that "no real scientist ever begins a real research without a theory of some sort for a starter."

Present-day misinterpreters of Darwin, who try to see human life in terms of a bloodily-expressed law of the jungle, either do not know or purposely overlook one of Darwin's most characteristic observations, to which Dr. Ritter recalls attention in his article. To Darwin, he says, the highest of all natural attributes of man was expressed in his famous quotation:

"It is summed up in that short but imperative word 'ought,' so full of high significance. It is the most noble of all attributes of man, leading him without a moment's hesitation to risk his life for that of a fellow creature; or after due deliberation, impelled simply by the deep feeling of right or duty, to sacrifice it in some great cause."

SALUTING

Letter to Manchester Guardian
Sir:—Less than 100 years ago all workers on the land were expected to stand aside and pull their forelocks when any of "the gentry" passed, and their wives and daughters had to make bob curtseys. Woe to the "bumpkin" or "yokel" who failed "to show proper respect to his superiors." He was "taught to know his place." This kowtowing to "his betters" has now ceased. Only if the plowman joins the army has he to salute. Our fields are none the worse tilled because pulling the forelock has ceased. Will the plowman fight less well if not forced to be continually saluting?

Dec. 6, 1941.

M. E. DURHAM.

Maybe it wouldn't be such a bad idea to judge a man as barbers do—on his face.

A woman is a person who spends two hours trying on dozens of hats before selecting one just like her old one.

A general complains that cooks save dishwater for the soldiers to drink. How times change! In the old days it was soup.

Parallel Thoughts

I will both lay me down in peace, and sleep: for thou, Lord, only makest me dwell in safety.—Psalms 4:8.

To be trusted is a greater compliment than to be loved.—George MacDonald.

Big Speech

By THE MACE

Harry Perry, of long recognized as the Legislature's silver-tongued orator, made his debut Wednesday as a minister of the Crown.

Quite a debut it was. It lasted an hour and a half and there wasn't a tiresome minute in it. Mr. Perry made the finest speech of the session and even his political enemies—for surely he has no personal ones—admit it.

His whole speech dealt with the C.C.F. and no members enjoyed it more than the opposition. He succeeded in making them mad—so mad that nearly every one of them jumped up to tangle with him. He amused them, he made them admire him, as they always do, for they realize they can talk with Mr. Perry, can argue with him. They like his tolerance, his broad-mindedness, his willingness to listen to the other fellow's point of view.

WIDE SWEEP

His speech was masterly, scholarly, full of opinions worth pondering; it showed the new Education Minister a man of vision, a man who knows history and literature. It was full of good common sense, and if you couldn't agree with it, at least you could study it.

The effect on the C.C.F. was worthy of consideration. Mr. Perry, to them, has long been one of the few Liberals or Conservatives they felt was on an equal plane with them, who could understand what they were talking about. They have always been willing to listen to him, debate with him long into the night. After his ministerial debut they are more willing than ever. When he was Mr. Speaker they applauded his fairness, admired the wisdom of his judgments.

ONE BY ONE

He took just about each of the 14 C.C.F. members and tore their arguments apart, if not to their satisfaction, at least to the satisfaction of coalitionists, who gave him an ovation. Mrs. Grace MacInnis, he said, was impatient, when she asked which side the coalition government was on—Meighen's or Bevin's. Why, thundered Mr. Perry, he might just as well ask her which side she was on—Roosevelt's and Churchill's, or Stalin's and Mr. MacInnis' hastily said she was on Churchill's and Roosevelt's and thought Mr. Perry should announce on which side he stood.

Colin Cameron said Mr. Perry was breaking Defence of Canada Regulations by coupling the name of Hitler, "our enemy," with that of Stalin, "our ally." If it wasn't a breach of defence regulations it was a breach of good taste, said Mr. Cameron.

DELUGE

Mr. Perry was eloquent, especially when he was talking of Great Britain, where he was born and where he now has a son with the Canadian army. He quoted Churchill's "we shall fight on the beaches . . ." and he did it with the poise and skill of an actor.

He had Dolly Steeves on her feet; he had Sam Guthrie up twice; he debated with Herbert Gargrave, Herbert Herdridge, Wal's LeFeaux, Colin Cameron, Grace MacInnis; he had Mrs. Laura Jamieson disagreeing in vehement mutterings; he made E. E. Winch shout contradictions and questions. Mrs. Steeves invited him to tea; Mr. Perry replied he would be delighted to have tea with Mrs. Steeves and stay to dinner as well. He took each of the planks in the C.C.F. platform and blasted away, waving his arms, folding them, reading from Freda Utley, Max Eastman, quoting Kipling, Longfellow, delving into political history to what Lloyd George, Lord Aberdeen, the Duke of Portland in 1783, William Pitt, Bonar Law had done. Of coalition, and noting how it had sunk parties in the past, he quoted Disraeli—"England does not love coalition."

First to congratulate him on a fine speech and shake him warmly by the hand were the 14 C.C.F. M.L.A.'s. It was a happy idea of Premier Hart's when he chose Mr. Perry to wind up the Throne debate.

Don't think of the pay. Good work is always recognized. I wish I was 30 years younger and starting all over again—Sgt. Paul Butin, retiring after 30 years in the army including a colonelcy in the World War.

FIRE AND THE WAR

From Winnipeg Free Press
A Dublin correspondent of the New Statesman and Nation, defending Elre's course in the war, writes:

"Irish strategy has aimed at the strict avoidance of belligerency. De Valera's calculation has been that if Elre follows a policy of genuine neutrality it may not be worth the while of the dictator states to attack, and so solidify Irishmen at home and abroad against them."

The theory that Hitler does not attack Elre because of its non-belligerency will make little appeal to people of intelligence inside Ireland or elsewhere. Elre's neutrality is not greater than that of Norway; did neutrality save Norway? Norway was overrun because its geographical position gave Hitler valuable strategic advantages. But Elre would be a much greater prize from the standpoint of strategy.

Why, then, does not Hitler strike? Everybody knows the answer, and no one quite so surely as Mr. de Valera. Hitler does not attack Elre because it is defended by the navy and air force of Great Britain. If they were not on the job Elre would be another Poland right now.

When the final showdown comes, De Valera will not be able to say much for Elre; but it may have advocates and defenders who will count in the tens of thousands of young Irishmen who are serving in all branches of the armed forces of the Empire; and are there with the consent, if not the approval, of the government of Elre which has put no embargo upon their activities. Mr. Finucane of the R.A.F., if he survives the war, might prove a valuable friend in the hour of need which will surely come.

The Church should minister its mercy to those on whom the cruelty of war most heavily falls.—Pastoral letter of Federated Churches of Christ in America.

YOUNG SENTENCE APPEAL FAILS

The appeal of Sydney Young, ex-R.C.M.P. officer now awaiting trial in Vancouver on a charge of murdering F. W. Fawcett, former Victoria druggist, against sentences totalling 15 years for armed robbery convictions preceding the Fawcett killing, was dismissed by the Court of Appeal Wednesday afternoon.

Magistrate Wood in Vancouver imposed sentence of five years each on three charges, making them run consecutively.

In delivering judgment the court held, as a broad principle of general law, it was against consecutive sentences, but, since each case should stand on its own merits, it found no reason to interfere with sentence in the case at bar.

Commissions Canceled

By order-in-council this week the provincial government canceled commissions for taking affidavits of the following, because they are no longer employed by the Department of Labor: J. E. Andrews, Kamloops; Thomas Byatt, Ladysmith; A. Coy, Penticton; M. Condon, Bella Coola; C. Crow, Vancouver; J. M. Dronsfield, Nelson; T. J. Guinan, Princeton; W. G. Hendy, Creston; R. G. Keys, Penticton; A. M. Lawson, Kelowna; Mrs. M. McLachlan, Vancouver; H. E. Matthews, Surrey; W. J. Maynard, Shawnigan Lake; R. Morgan, Ashcroft; W. Mudge, Cobble Hill; G. O'Dell, Vancouver; T. T. Pullan, Metcho sin; R. H. Tebb, Quesnel; Percy N. Welch, Langford; W. J. Wishart, Otter Point, and H. T. Whitehead, Victoria.

Janet Alexena Bruce, export clerk in the forest branch at Vancouver, has been appointed a commissioner to take affidavits, succeeding Douglas Allan Sims, who has enlisted.

By order-in-council Lloyd Stewart has been appointed a justice of the peace.

Cottonseed meal has been found to be one of the most satisfactory plant products for raising brook trout.

With the Forces

CPL. GEORGE STOCK (right), son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Stock, 3143 Cedar Hill Road, is now a radio technician in the R.A.F. He is shown in the above picture taken in England with another Canadian, L.A.C. R. W. Brown, Hamilton, Ont., who received his radio instruction at McMaster University and has four brothers on active service. Born in Victoria and educated at Oaklands and Victoria High Schools, Cpl. Stock went overseas in 1938 at the age of 17 to join the R.A.F. Since the war began he has been on regular active service and last May, while serving as a wireless operator and air gunner on a Wellington bomber, was badly injured when forced to bail out along with his pilot who was also a Canadian. Grounded, after a long spell in hospital, he took a special air force course to become a radio technician.

3,697 in B.C. Enlist in Navy

OTTAWA (CP)—Enlistments in the Canadian armed forces were detailed by provinces in a return tabled in the House of Commons in answer to a question by T. L. Church, Conservative, Toronto-Broadview.

Figures given for the army, navy and air force in the period from September, 1939, to October, 1941, totaled 393,717.

Enlistments of officers and ratings in the navy numbered 26,750 and were divided: Prince Edward Island, 707; Nova Scotia, 3,489; New Brunswick, 978; Quebec, 4,077; Ontario, 8,675; Manitoba, 1,747; Saskatchewan, 1,471; Alberta, 1,909; and British Columbia, 3,697.

Army figures which totaled 277,707 were given by districts: Military District No. 1, 20,946; No. 2, 52,511; No. 3, 28,389; No. 4, 34,616; No. 5, 12,940; No. 6, 23,030; No. 7, 16,126; No. 10, 23,915; No. 11, Victoria, 24,501; No. 12, 18,021; No. 13, 22,372.

The 89,200 members of the R.C.A.F. who enlisted during that period, including 236 members of the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force, were divided:

British Columbia, 8,141; Alberta, 8,395; Saskatchewan, 9,445; Manitoba, 10,238; Ontario, 36,277; Quebec, 9,532; New Brunswick, 3,298; Nova Scotia, 2,962; and Prince Edward Island, 812.

TOO TALL TO FLY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Roy G. Butler, 22, has been enlisted by the R.C.A.F. but strictly for ground duties. He was turned down for air duties because of his height, 6 feet 9 inches. The limit for fliers, because of the size of plane compartments, is 6 feet 3.

Disappointed Over Army Rejection

Disappointed at his rejection on medical grounds, Frank Henrich, 47-year-old farmer, has turned to Merville, hoping that he may still find a way to serve his adopted country.

Henrich was born in Switzerland but has spent most of his life in Canada. A year ago he applied to join the Ordnance Corps and was given a machinist's trade test. He passed the test but being over age was told to return to his farm as he might be called later. This week he came to Victoria and would have been accepted but the medical examination showed he had a hernia which had never troubled him and of which he was not aware.

The army does not operate on applicants with hernia, so Henrich failed to realize his ambition to join the service.

Men 18 to 35 Dropped From Reserve Army

Men eligible for active service will be dropped from reserve units here, military officials said as they moved to bring into being the reserve brigade which Major Gen. R. O. Alexander, officer commanding, Pacific Command, announced would be formed on Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

All men between the ages of 18 and 35 who are physically fit for the active services will be dropped.

Men in the reserve are working out with new Bren guns which recently arrived here.

STOKER BILL KIDD has rejoined his ship after a month's overseas leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kidd, James Island.

Air Hero Is Household Name

Sqdrn. Ldr. D. E. Gilliam is so smeared with fame that his name is a household word in England. But he is only a slight, sandy-haired youth who would melt into any crowd and never be noticed.

His version of his exploits was brief and undramatic. "I got the D.F.C. during what was called the Battle of Britain," he said, "The D.S.O. was given me only about a month ago for a bit of low-strafting over the Channel. The A.F.C. was a peacetime award."

But an idolizing cabin boy filled the story. "Gilliam is known to everybody in England," he said. "When the Jockies were coming over London everybody knew he was up there knocking them down. Of course, we couldn't tell which plane was his during the fighting, but when he led his flight back doing the victory roll, we all knew. There is no one who can do a victory roll like Gilliam."

"He was knocking them down all the time. Three and four a day sometimes. I don't know how many he got, but I betcha it was in the hundreds." He stopped for breath and tried to find more words to describe his hero, but could only say: "He's tops in England all right."

Gilliam himself was enthusiastic about flying, especially flying as a fighter pilot. "It's the biggest thrill in the world," he said. "Everything else seems tame in comparison."

On loan to the R.C.A.F. for a few months, the British hero had only praise for the Canadian airmen. "I've flown with them all through the war and they are really excellent fighters," he said.

"The only ones who would be able to cut-flight them," he added, "are the Poles. They are real 'fighting fools.' I flew with one of their squadrons for a while and had more action with them than with any other outfit."

Crude weighing machines, based on the balance, were used in Egypt at least 5,000 years before the Christian era.

Services Rendered by THE IMPERIAL LIFE

in 1941

Largest volume of New Business in any year in the past Ten.

The personal savings of each and every one of us, be these savings large or small, are required for the successful conduct of the war. Owners of Imperial Life policies have the satisfaction of knowing that by investing their savings in this way they not only provide personal and family security but make further money available for the war effort. That is because The Imperial Life is investing in Government War Loans and in essential business enterprises the funds required to be laid aside to meet future obligations to policyholders and their dependents.

Evidence of the services rendered by The Imperial Life in 1941 is revealed by the following figures from the Company's 45th Annual Report:

Benefit Payments $7,097,697

These represent death and disability benefits, settlement of matured endowment, annuity payments, etc. They lessened the financial stress of dependency, old age and death on policyholders and their dependents—as well as on the government.

Total Assets $100,684,636

Imperial Life assets increased by more than $4,500,000 in 1941 and, notwithstanding the abnormal business conditions which have existed throughout the world, the Company's assets have grown during the past ten years by more than $34,500,000.

Reserves for Policies and Annuities $78,584,789

These constitute an amount which, with interest and future premiums, is sufficient to meet all obligations to policyholders and their beneficiaries. They are substantially in excess of government requirements.

Premiums and Interest Received $13,939,727

More than 75,000 men, women and children deposited with the Company during the year premiums to the amount of almost $10,000,000. Interest earnings on invested funds made up the balance of this item.

New Assurances $26,403,675

This total represents an increase of 16% over the previous year. It is the largest volume of new business obtained by the Company in any year of the past ten.

Total Assurances in Force $310,460,303

These show a gratifying increase over 1940. An ever-growing group of policyholders refers to The Imperial Life as "My insurance company."

The part the agency force of The Imperial Life plays in encouraging thrift and sacrifice is suggested by the above figures. They indicate the vital and essential function performed by life insurance men and women in wartime.

Specialist Called For One of Quints

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. John L. McDonald, Toronto orthopedist, said tonight he would visit Callander, Ont., to examine Marie Dionne, one of the quintuplet daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, but added, "I don't know when I am going and I don't know what her trouble is, if any."

(The Toronto telegram said today that Marie would be examined "for a muscular atrophy of the leg suspected by a North Bay Doctor, Dr. I. Joyal." The paper said the examination is to be made at the request of the Quints' father.)

Dr. McDonald did not say who had requested him to make the examination. He said he had never examined any of the Quints before. "I received a request to examine her and I accepted," he said.

Red Cross Notes

Annual meeting of the Fairfield Red Cross unit was held in the Fairfield United Church, last week. All officers were returned by acclamation: Mrs. S. T. Schl, president; Mrs. J. Gorman, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. E. Edney, inspector of work. Reports of the work done by the war club of the Fairfield United Church was given by Mrs. J. Murphy, showing 527 knitted articles returned. A total of 1,149 knitted articles and 924 sewn articles were reported returned to Red Cross headquarters. Next monthly meeting will be held Thursday, Feb. 26, in the schoolroom of the Fairfield United Church.

METCHOSIN

The 1st Battalion, Dufferin and Haldimand Rifles, C.A., regimental band, led by Sgt. Renwick, gave a concert in Metchoshin Hall last Sunday afternoon, to benefit the Red Cross. Approximately 200 enjoyed the fine numbers played, among which were "Land of Hope and Glory," "Songs of Old England," two clever arrangements of familiar airs: "Musical Switch" and "Community Land," a tribute to the U.S., "United We Stand," and the band's own special arrangement of "There'll Always Be an England."

Sir Heaton Forbes Robinson, who acted as chairman, spoke of the essential services of the Red Cross.

Emily Carr Praised By U.S. Author

Mrs. Katharine Pinkerton, one of America's most successful present-day writers, has written to a friend here a most spontaneous tribute to Miss Emily Carr, Victoria artist, whose book, "Klee Wyck," recently published, has had such a favorable reception. "I was glad to get Emily Carr's book," she has done a stunning job, and I glory in her triumph," said Mrs. Pinkerton in her note. Mrs. Pinkerton, who has attained fame through "Wilderness Wife," "Three's a Crew," and "Two Ends of a Shoestring," spent several winters in Victoria while she and her husband were gathering material for articles on the British Columbia coast. She was one of the most ardent admirers of Miss Carr's paintings at that time, and frequently visited her studio.

Klondike Kate, In Hollywood, Rolls Her Own

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Klondike Kate, who saw life in capital letters in the Yukon gold rush, is here to spell it out for a movie scenario.

But she's not going to be difficult about it.

"They can do what they want with my story," she said today. "Wouldn't I be a fine one, telling them how to make a movie? It would be like the director telling me how to ride the Yukon Rapids."

Kate is 61, and looks like the average woman in her sixties. She is soft-spoken, talks well and behaves like an English boarding-school product. Incidentally, she is one.

Only tipoff to her notable past is the expert way she rolls a cigarette.

MET HUSBAND IN DANCE HALL

She prefers talking about her husband, Johnny Matson. They met in a dance hall on Christmas Eve, 1901. Thirty years later he located her again through a newspaper write-up. He proposed by mail, and they were married in Vancouver, B.C., in 1933.

"Johnny kept flowers growing on Matson Creek all those years," she says. "He told me he knew he'd find me some day. He's wonderful."

Pressed about the gold rush, she'll tell you times weren't so exciting. Most of it, in fact, was pretty prosaic.

"Dance hall girls have an awful reputation," she observes, "but most of them are clean and decent. And the miners respected them for it."

FROM SHIRTS TO SHORTS

They wore high-necked shirt-waists, high button shoes and skirts to the ground. She won't be surprised, but she won't protest, if the movies put them in spangled shorts.

Kate is here from her home in Bend, Ore., to confer with writers at Columbia Studios. She's anxious to return home, even more anxious to lure her Johnny away from his Yukon mine. She sees him only alternate years in Dawson for a few weeks, and with the war she isn't sure she'll be able to get there this spring.

"Some day I'll kidnap him," she threatens. "I know I could make him happy in civilization. Why,

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Democracy Theme of Lively Discussion

Lively discussion was stimulated by the three-minute addresses on "Democracy," which formed the introductory part of the third in the series of Women's Council Table discussions, held Wednesday at Central Junior High School.

Miss Patricia Hamilton Smith, first speaker, dealt with "The History of the Development of the Idea of Democracy." The ancient Egyptian, Assyrian and Babylonian civilizations had no concept of the idea, the first appearance of which was in Greece, in the fifth century before Christ.

The great weakness of the Greek democracy was its inability to extend the idea beyond the city into the state. While the early Roman republic had a concept of the democratic principle, this quickly became secondary to military aims.

DEMOCRACY'S MEANING

Mrs. Dorothy Steeves, M.L.A., dealt with "What is meant by democracy as a political system as we know it today?" In this she reviewed the defects of the principle as it operates in the so-called democracies, and the remedies for these defects. One of the main criticisms brought against it was that it was slow, unwieldy and inefficient. These, to her mind, were superficial weaknesses, and most of the cures being offered were superficial cures, such as more education. Economic security, freedom from want, freedom from fear, freedom of thought, freedom of expression were necessary.

ITS MEANING

The last speaker, Mrs. A. C. Ross, took up the question: "What do we mean by Democracy as a way of life?" The speaker's view was that democracy did not mean equal success, which depended on ability, but it did mean equal opportunity. She cited many instances in industry where the principle of democracy was being worked out in practical economic terms by the sharing of profits with employees.

Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin presided. Mrs. E. S. Farr moved the thanks to the speakers.

At the next meeting, Feb. 18, the subject will be: "How Should We Deal With Juvenile Delinquency?"

Coy Women Patients Prove To Be Sailors

Anna and Vola, right, with a St. John Ambulance Corps worker at a Navy League hotel in an eastern Canadian port.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT (CP)—Many strange cargoes have drifted into this anonymous port since the war began but none have ever caused more interest than two Russian girls called Anna and Vola.

Firstly, the names Anna and Vola are as misleading as the girls proved to be as feminine as any Canadian housewife.

Interviewed in their hospital cots, Anna and Vola were, for lack of a better word, coy. As soon as the reporter stepped into the room they slid from their sitting positions until all but their heads were well concealed under the bedclothes.

They are the first women sailors ever known of here to have survived, or experienced, more than 10 hours afloat in a tiny lifeboat during sub-zero temperatures.

Naturally the two were expected to be of the Amazon type. Imagine the surprise of Navy League of Canada officials, who are looking after the waifs, when the girls proved to be as feminine as any Canadian housewife.

Interviewed in their hospital cots, Anna and Vola were, for lack of a better word, coy. As soon as the reporter stepped into the room they slid from their sitting positions until all but their heads were well concealed under the bedclothes.

However, seeing the matron accompanied the newsmen they became more friendly, smiled, and made some attempts to fix their hair and tidy their appearance. In fact, they acted just like Canadian girls do when they are caught not looking their best.

However, they seemed pleased that people were paying attention to them and did their best, through a series of gestures, to be friendly. Smiling—and when they smile their heavy features are really attractive—they motioned for their visitor to sit down.

Both were plump brunettes and both wore their hair down about their shoulders.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis Jones, Victoria.

The ceremony took place in St. Michael's Church, Vancouver, the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wearing a dress of white chiffon with embroidered jacket, and a finger ring held in place by a cluster of white freesias. Her bouquet was composed of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations.

The matron of honor, Mrs. R. C. McDonald, wore a dress of forget-me-not blue silk, with a headress of blue net and pale yellow marguerites, and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The bride's sister, Miss Grace McDonald, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of moss rose chiffon and a headress of pink net and yellow marguerites. Her bouquet was of pale yellow chrysanthemums. The best man was the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Mr. John L. Bull, and ushers were Mr. Ray McDonald, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ronald Willis and Mr. Leslie Smith, cousins of the bride.

After a reception the bride and groom left for Vancouver Island, the bride traveling in a turquoise blue crepe frock and a pine green

JENVEY—CHITTENDEN

In the presence of immediate relatives Wednesday evening at 8 in the Metropolitan Church, Rev. Dr. A. E. Whitehouse united in marriage Marjorie Edith, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chittenden, 217 Cook Street, and Mr. Frank M. Jenvey, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jenvey, 715 Linden Avenue.

In a becoming clover rose afternoon frock of Pail Mail crepe, the bride walked down the aisle on the arm of her father, an off-the-face veiled hat in matching tone and a corsage of rosebuds and gardenias complementing her ensemble. Her only ornament was a pearl and diamond pendant which her father had given to her mother on the occasion of their marriage.

Miss Verna Jenvey, sister of the groom, was her only attendant, wearing a Chinese tea silk crepe frock with brown halo hat and accessories and a corsage of Tullman roses. Acting as groomsmen was Mr. William Kemp.

About 75 friends were received following the ceremony in Terry's Rose Room, where the couple stood between two tall standards of white chrysanthemums and yellow daffodils to receive their guests. They were assisted by

Plane Plant Men Get More Training

OTTAWA (CP)—One hundred "top-grade" men from Canada's aircraft industry are being sent to California for special courses in production methods. A Labor Department statement said the men will take three-month courses at a Los Angeles technical aircraft institute, at the joint expense of their employers and the labor department's war emergency training program. Twelve Canadian manufacturing and overhaul plants are participating in the scheme.

In addition, said the statement, home study courses in aircraft construction are to be provided for 1,000 other Canadian aircraft workers by the Los Angeles institute.

C.C.F. Conscripted Bogey For Diversion Says Perry

Why, asked Hon. H. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education, in the Legislature Wednesday, should the C.C.F. want conscription of wealth when the hundreds of thousands of Canada's fighting men have not demanded it?

"Most of these men left good jobs, good positions, good homes, good businesses, good farms," Mr. Perry said. "They never sought any condition at all when they enlisted. The C.C.F. are using this legislature as a wailing wall, to cry—not for the men who have enlisted—but for a hypothetical army of men who may be afraid of conscription, and who want guarantees of this and that, before they serve their country."

ROGEY

Mr. Perry said he doubted if there is any such body of men in this province. He said the C.C.F. had created the bogey of conscription as a diversion of discussion from their previous errors of judgment in opposing war, in opposing sending men overseas. The C.C.F., he said, want victory, but with qualifications and with a bribe.

Samuel Guthrie, C.C.F. Co-ordinator-Newcastle, asked Mr. Perry if the big industries had not been bribed with profits.

Social security and conscription of wealth have nothing to do with victory, said Mr. Perry. "If we do not get the men, we shall not gain the victory," he said. "Without victory the only security we shall get will be the security of the concentration camp and the grave. When a race of people is exterminated, it has been the pride, the ambition of the young men of the race to fight to the death for the homeland; for the lands, the fields, the brooks, the streams, the pathways and the homes, however humble they may be, for the graves of their ancestors."

Our Canadian boys who enlist are just the same as those of past ages and of all races. They are fighting the enemies of their country—they ask no qualifications and seek no conditions."

Income wealth is being conscripted now, Mr. Perry said. The C.C.F. had not thought out these policies to their logical conclusion.

"At present I am convinced the soundest economy is based on taxation of profits and income and of capital at death," he said.

PROPAGANDA FORUM

The C.C.F., the Education Minister said, is using the Legislature as a forum by which they may conduct propaganda and gain publicity for their party. "The coalition government and the Liberal and Conservative parties are not capitalistic, simply because the C.C.F., like Mr. Goebbels, keep saying so," Mr. Perry said. "They are political parties, concerned with ideas of government functioning in the sphere of the constitution—and their political policies are based upon the philosophy of government of the people, by the people and for the people."

"The C.C.F. has a different philosophy of government, which is the economic doctrine that the ownership of all productive and distributive wealth shall be vested in the state—not in the workers or the producers, much as this—but in the bureaucracy of the departments of the state, governed by socialistic ministries. To this idea of government certainly we are opposed, for it is nothing more or less in its ultimate conception than a vicious tyranny of total bureaucracy and total political patronage, the counterpart of which is seen in Russia, Germany and Italy, which we call totalitarianism."

Mr. Perry said the "sheep" clothing of social reform is the covering used for the wolf of state capitalism, bureaucracy and ultimately totalitarianism and the negation of personal liberty."

Mr. Perry refuted the C.C.F. suggestion that the Russians are the only force holding back the Nazis.

"No Russians ever made such astounding claims for themselves as the C.C.F. Party of British Columbia makes for Russia," said Mr. Perry. "To draw the conclusion their present counter-offensive, magnificent though it may be, is an object lesson in collectivism—as the C.C.F. members say it is—is showing such extreme partiality as only a single-track mind could assume," the minister said.

He wondered if Mr. Gargrave had become the modern Elijah and if Mrs. Steeves was now Mother Russia.

LOWERED MORALE

"The C.C.F., while attributing great praise to Russia," Mr. Perry said, "had no words of inspiration to our own men overseas, our Canadian prisoners of war at Hongkong, but rather words to disturb their minds and lower their morale by emphasizing the wages and housing of the workers; the alleged profits of employers, and even complaining in this parliament about the saluting of officers."

"The bravery, the courage, the steadfastness, the fortitude and endurance of the British forces are just as high as their comrades in Russia. We pay tribute to the Russians, we pay tribute to the Chinese—but as for me, my highest praise, my warmest admiration, my deepest homage, is reserved for the stout-hearted people of Great Britain, the British Commonwealth and Empire—despised by some socialists and communists—for I remember after the fall of France, Great Britain stood her ground alone."

Girl Scouts Get Catholic Approval

NEW YORK—An official stamp of approval that has just been placed on the Girl Scout program by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, clears the way for expansion of the organization within the ranks of that denomination, and for what may become a greatly accelerated participation by girls eligible for membership in the activities connected with national defence. Word of the action taken by the recently organized youth department of the conference came from the Right Rev. John A. Duffy of Buffalo as head of the division.

Mrs. Paul Kammerer Jr. of New York, assistant secretary of the Girl Scout organization and one of the Catholic members of the board of directors, received the message that alters the status of the organization. It is significant, she explained, because, although Catholic Girl Scout troops have existed since the organization first was established, following an interview by its founder, Juliette Low, with the late Cardinal Hayes, formation of each unit was subject to local sanction by a parish priest, rather than by the blanket endorsement now given.

SPORADIC GROWTH NOTED

Growth of Catholic units was sporadic in the years intervening, many girls becoming members of others forming exclusively Catholic memberships, all functioning as part of the national Girl Scout association.

"This program has already proved itself valuable in the growth of youth activities in Catholic parishes throughout the country," Bishop Duffy wrote, "and I am confident that its value for our Catholic girls will be increasingly apparent as a wider use is made of the program. I trust that many of our Catholic young women will be attracted to the organization as leaders of Girl Scout troops."

"This endorsement, coming as it does through the National Catholic Welfare Conference, is national in scope," Mrs. Kammerer said. "It's really a 'Go ahead' signal to Catholic girls and women of the country, encouraging them to take these places through Girl Scouting, beside their sisters of other faiths, in serving their country in its hour of need."

Record Session Of House Closed

OTTAWA (CP)—Second session of the 19th Parliament of Canada, longest in history, ended Wednesday night with the usual ceremony of a Speech from the Throne, read in the Senate Chamber by Sir Lyman Duff, deputy to the Governor-General.

With a secret sitting in prospect at an early date, the third session got under way this afternoon with a new throne speech in which light was thrown on probable events to come. Possibility of a secret debate loomed Wednesday, when for the first time since the war began Prime Minister Mackenzie King lent encouragement to the idea so that members could speak more freely of vital war matters than in open session.

Recalling developments in war areas and in Canada within the past year, the prorogation reflected the extension of the war to encompass the whole globe, exploded the myth of national isolation and recognized the freedom of each nation—as being bound in the freedom of all.

It halted the entry of the United States into the war and stressed the "new and very critical situation created by Japanese aggression in the Far East."

MOBILIZATION

Dealing with home affairs the speech said the whole economy of Canada has been increasingly directed to meet the needs of war. There has been a steady and orderly mobilization of material resources and of men and women for the widely varied tasks of modern total war.

Additional precautions had been taken for civil defence. Further provision had been made for the dependents of members of the armed forces.

He sent promptly to Catholic women leaders in many parts of the country, "so that they may proceed at once to work out plans for setting up additional troops in parishes which had not yet been served by Scouting."

The program of the Girl Scouts, over 30 years, has embraced first aid, child care, outdoor cooking, and many types of community service which are now being diverted, she pointed out, to the necessities of the defence program.

Reciprocity in the war production of Canada and the United States had been established as a result of the agreement reached at Hyde Park in April last.

Comprehensive and drastic measures had been taken to control the cost of living and to prevent inflation.

The speech closed with an invocation to Divine Providence for aid "in the preservation of our Christian civilization."

The session which ended Wednesday night was the longest in the history of the Canadian Parliament. Opening in November, 1940, it extended, with two long adjournments, over a period of 14 months.

Credit Unions

At Lake Hill Hall, Father T. J. Mangan of Edmonton gave a very interesting talk to a very attentive audience on the many benefits to be derived from membership in a good credit union.

Father Mangan was the first man to start a credit union in Alberta. He explained how in 1938, long before the Credit Unions Act was passed in that province, he and his parishioners held a one hour study class every Sunday night for 18 months.

He suggested that in the new order of things in general, which everybody was hoping for after the war, the credit union movement would be a tremendous help, as it was a co-operative movement.

Manufacturers Life Annual Report

The 55th annual report of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company shows substantial gains in new insurance and insurance in force. New insurance amounted to $60,000,000, an increase of $9,800,000 over 1940, bringing the insurance in force to $632,000,000, an increase of $27,400,000. Income from all sources exceeded $39,000,000 and assets increased by $15,000,000 to $205,000,000. After making provision for all liabilities, the contingency reserve and surplus amounts to $9,600,000.

Total payments to policyholders and beneficiaries were $15,455,000, of which $4,583,000 were death claims. The favorable mortality experience of recent years continued in 1941.

Ease Border Rules

VANCOUVER (CP)—Paul R. Josselyn, American consul in Vancouver, has announced that regulations for soldiers, sailors and airmen going from Canada to the United States on leave or for other reasons had been eased.

Mr. Josselyn said passports would no longer be required but visas must be obtained from the American consulate in Vancouver. Members of the active services must furnish identification in order to obtain visas.

Highlights from the

95th Annual Report

of Canada's Oldest Life Assurance Company

"We believe that a life insurance company cannot stand on the sidelines in this supreme struggle."

During 1941, the Canada Life purchased $24,200,000 of government war and defense bonds. This amount is greater than the entire renewal premium income of the Company for the year.

- New paid-for life insurance placed with the Company in 1941 showed an increase of 23 per cent. over the comparable figure for the previous year.
- In addition, an increased volume of annuity business was completed during the year.
- Life insurance in force at the end of 1941 amounted to $815,470,716, an increase of almost $10,000,000 over the previous year. This figure does not include annuity business, which has also shown a substantial increase. To ensure payment of these contracts, the Company has assets of $284,617,288, which, combined with future premium payments, will be ample to meet the obligations involved as they fall due.
- Lapses and surrenders—policies which are discontinued before they mature—were at the lowest level in 17 years.
- In the last ten years, only twice has mortality experience been more favourable.
- Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries during the year amounted to $22,956,250—an average of $75,514 each working day.
- The security of policyholders has again been strengthened by a further increase in surplus.
- The rate of interest earned by the Company in 1941 was 4.21 per cent.

Commander B. L. Johnson, representative of the defence department on the committee, flew back to Vancouver today after visiting the headquarters at Esquimalt. Three more subcommittees will be set up in the near future to deal with other phases in the problem of Japanese from the coast. Max F. Hume, new Westminster chairman of the standing committee on Orientals, announced today.

The next committee to be named will handle Japanese engaged in berry growing and other agricultural industries, Mayor Hume said. Other committees will be set up to handle removal of Japanese in logging and lumbering and to handle stores and business.

The following were named to board of management: C. W. Atkins, Mr. Muir, W. B. Orr, J. S. Simpson, re-elected, and Scafe, S. L. McCracken, J. Orchard and H. Ormiston.

H. Pease, chairman of the Salvage Corps, announced that the corps does not take old tin cans or razor blades, never, he cautioned householders to save both, as it is expected that manufacturers might be forced to reclaim these products and use them again.

Business Men See War Industries

W. Wakelem, left, and Alex Henderson cut a large steel plate.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon inspected some of the war industries in Victoria. They first went to the new No. 2 plant of Yarrow's Ltd., where they saw a pair of 10,000-ton freighters in course of construction. Next they visited the Hafer Machine Shops, where plant extensions have been carried out and much important work is under way, and finally they saw the large, expanding properties of the Victoria Machinery Depot, where two more large freighters are on the slipways.

The directors found that thousands of men are now employed on these projects. The allied demand is for ships, and shipbuilders on this coast are answering the urgent plea with increased tempo of production, riveters, welders, shipwrights, blacksmiths, laborers and apprentices working day and night to deliver the goods.

Near the prow of each is the sign, "Missing from the convoy until YOU finish the job."

The yards are industrial beehives. Steam cranes shunt back and forth on tracks that criss-cross all over the yard. Huge derricks lift ribs and plates, sliding them into position in the partly completed hulls. The din from rivet guns blots out conversation, even shouting at some parts. Blinding blue glows flash from different places on the hulls, the welders doing their job.

Everywhere around the growing hulls lay numbered parts, which will go into the ships as they are needed.

The blacksmith and plate shops are as large as a good-sized civic auditorium. There are punching machines that make the rivet holes, bumping machines that bend the plates into shape, rolling machines, steam hammers, under whose tons of pressure white-hot metal is shaped; trip hammers, furnaces and forges, shearing machines which facilitate the movement of heavy pieces of steel.

All down the ways and aboard the hulls are arc lights, their powerful rays allowing work to go full speed ahead during the night hours.

Store houses and rooms, lunch rooms, the administration buildings, first aid rooms and the guard houses are also in the yards.

Around everything are high fences of steel posts and thick mesh wire, topped by strands of ugly barbed wire. It is strictly business in the yard, strictly war business.

'BALALAIKA' ON YORK SCREEN

"The great art of acting is not in being natural but in seeming natural. In a way, it's the old 'all done with mirrors' idea."

And that, according to Lionel Atwill, is why the actor must not always do scenes as he would like to do them but as the director wishes them. Holder of a unique contract as an actor-director-producer, Atwill gave this advice to all would-be actors from the wealth of his own years as a stage and screen star.

At present, featured in support of Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey in "Balalaika," coming to the York Theatre today, Atwill told how this knowledge kept his directing experience from ever interfering with his playing.

"Frequently I am asked," he explained, "if I do not feel it difficult to accept the direction of another man when I am also a director myself. On the contrary, I feel it gives me a deeper and quicker understanding of what is wanted."

AIR DRAMA HAS TIMELY PLOT.

The topical air-preparedness nature of RKO Radio's "Men Against the Sky," a romantic drama of modern airplane building, is said to make this vivid offering one of the most timely documents of the season, and is now at the Rio Theatre.

Featuring Richard Dix, Kent Taylor, Edmund Lowe and Wendy Barrie, the film chronicles the hectic experiences of three men and a girl, connected with an aircraft firm, to design and construct the world's fastest pursuit ship against strong competition.

Granville Bates, Grant Withers, Donald Briggs and Charles Quigley have important supporting roles.

TRACY CAST IN 'DR. JEKYLL' FILM

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which for 54 years has been a vehicle for purely theatrical tricks, has become something quite different in the hands of Spencer Tracy, two-time Academy Award winner, and Victor Fleming, director of "Gone With the Wind."

They started talking about Jekyll and Hyde two years ago. Their enthusiasm for the Robert Louis Stevenson thriller grew with the conviction that the story could be made more dramatically powerful, exciting and suspenseful if audiences could be made to believe the startling characters.

"That's what we set out to do," said Fleming, "make Jekyll and Hyde believable. With Tracy, I knew it could be done."

The picture is currently showing at the Atlas Theatre.

'Look Who's Laughing' Coming to Dominion

Hollywood's movie glamour holds no appeal to: Marian Jordan, better known as Molly, of Fibber McGee and Molly, who are currently co-starring with Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy and Lucille Ball in RKO Radio's "Look Who's Laughing," coming to the Dominion Theatre Friday.

For Fibber's wife in the picture, as she is in real life, the studio property department selected a beautiful diamond circlet wedding ring for her to wear in place of her own—but Molly would have none of it.

"This plain gold band has been good enough for Jim Jordan and me through 20 years of thick and thin. I don't see any reason to change it now."

And she didn't either.

'MEET JOHN DOE' CAPRA PICTURE

Frank Capra's production, "Meet John Doe," is now being shown at the Cadet Theatre. Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck are co-starred.

Capra and Riskin, director and writer of "Meet John Doe," have put on the screen an inviolable fact that most of us have overlooked or completely forgotten; that a people or a nation are as strong as the small people of that nation want it to be.

Gila Monsters Are Poisonous Lizards

This week we have been speaking of various kinds of lizards, both large and small, and the question comes: "Are lizards dangerous?" The answer is that most lizards have no harm in them for people. The very large ones are not classed as dangerous.

Certain lizards, however, are poisonous. I am thinking of members of the Gila monster family.

Gila monsters were named after the Gila river, which flows through Arizona. They are found in the valley of that river, also in New Mexico, Texas and Mexico. The name "Gila" is pronounced "He-lah."

Gila monsters are not very "monstrous." The largest of them are little more than two feet long.

There is a special branch of the Gila monster family in Mexico. Sometimes the members of this branch are described under the name of "Heloderma horridum."

Another name for the Gila monster is "beaded lizard." The body is covered with scales which look like beads. The animal has a coloring of black and yellow, or black and pinkish-orange.

Gila monsters are found mainly in desert places. They have grooves in the teeth of the lower jaw, and poison flows up through the grooves when they bite. Poisonous snakes, on the other hand, send poison down through the teeth of the upper jaw.

The poison from lizards of this kind is something like venom from rattlesnakes. It does not, however, do so much damage to people as rattlesnake poison.

If you tramp across a desert in the southern part of this continent, I advise you to be careful of Gila monsters. Yet I hope you will have no fear of lizards in general. Other kinds of lizards are not harmful - many of them are helpful because they destroy insect pests.

The lizard family is so interesting that people might well learn more about it. It contains members which can climb trees, swim in the ocean, walk on the ceiling and grow new tails.

There also are lizards which can rise up and run on two legs! The frilled lizards of Australia do that. When one of them is frightened, it stands on its hind legs and runs. The tail keeps it in balance. When upright, a frilled lizard is from 18 to 20 inches tall.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Three months ago I married a boy who told me he was able to support me and my mother, but now he wants me to pool my salary with his. He makes $80 a month and I make $120. I have my mother and grandmother to support and am obligated for $300 which must be paid. I figure that as long as I owe these bills my salary cannot be considered my own. He says that I shouldn't look at it this way because I could borrow enough money to pay these bills and then I could put some money in the bank. Several days after we were married he asked me if I would sign my name to a contract for the purchase of an automobile, which I did. The down payment took every cent he had and I withdrew $50 from the bank, all of which he has spent. He lives at our house and has not paid one dime in board, or even for his own laundry. He refuses to let me use the car until I help him pay the notes on it. Now the question is: Should I pool my money with his? Is he entitled to any part of my salary when I buy my own clothes and pay my mother's and grandmother's expenses? He demands that I turn over my cheque to him. What shall I do?
P.A.Y.

Answer: Hang on to your pay envelope with both hands, for evidently your husband not only doesn't intend to support you, but he expects you to support him and furnish him with a car. You will see that when the next note becomes due for the car you will be called upon to pay it.

It used to be that only rich girls were married for their money, but now every business girl who gets a good salary is pursued by fortune hunters who think that it is easier to work a wife than it is to work at a job. Every community is infested with these lazy, loutish bums who spend their time loafing around pool halls and otherwise diverting themselves, while their wives pound typewriters or stand behind counters all day and then come home and cook their lords and masters good dinners.

Trustees Ask $15,000 More for Saanich Teachers

If no substantial changes are made Tuesday, when the Saanich school board meets a delegation of Saanich teachers, the board will recommend to the Saanich Council that teachers' salaries in that municipality be raised $15,000 annually.

For two hours Wednesday night the new board, voted into office last December on promise to better teachers' salaries, debated the salary problem. Trustee Mrs. E. M. Bryce put forward a new idea in Saanich salary schedules in which teachers' certificates and degrees would, as well as their experience, be recognized.

After modifications, the schedule proposed that the lowest basic wage for elementary school teachers be increased from $800 annually to $900. The maximum wage for such teachers would be $1,300 maximum now in force.

For high school teachers the minimum would be increased from $1,200 to $1,400 and the maximum from $2,000 to $2,400. Increases in the elementary schools would amount to $60 annually until the maximum had been reached. In the high schools the increases would be $75 annually until the $2,400 maximum had been attained.

Nothing definite was decided upon monetary recognition of degrees, although Mrs. Bryce's proposed schedule called for an extra $300 annually for teachers in elementary schools holding the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The question of degrees meriting larger salaries, larger wages for male teachers, as compared with female instructors, and larger salaries for school principals will be decided upon at Tuesday's meeting at Cloverdale School.

Mrs. Francine Paterson said she thought male teachers should receive $100 more annually than women instructors because it was necessary to attract good material for school principalships in years to come.

A delegation, headed by E. E. Bell, and representing the janitors of Saanich schools, asked the meeting to consider a 10 per cent raise in salaries for the school janitors of the municipality.

He pointed out that janitors' wages were the same as 20 years ago, and that the men felt they needed the extra money, in view of the rise in the cost of living. The janitors testified that, as full-time employees, they worked an average of 10 hours a day.

The board will consider the matter of increasing their wages when the year's estimates are made up.

"Acute accommodation" conditions in Saanich schools are almost nothing when compared to conditions in other parts of the province," E. G. Daniels, provincial school inspector, told the board members. Mr. Daniels is spending this week and next week inspecting Saanich schools.

He said one of the most difficult points in the municipality was the lack of friendship between the school board and the teachers, and said their first consideration should be the establishment of a friendly basis.

He suggested that the best relief for overcrowded conditions in Saanich schools was the construction of a large and central junior high school, which would relieve crowding in the primary schools by removing grades 7 and 8 from them. Such a school would also accommodate grade 12 classes, now housed in the high schools.

He said the Department of Education had informed him that accommodation problems would be looked after, and that he, himself, was going to put a by-law before the people of Coquitlam, of which district he is regional school director, authorizing further construction to relieve overcrowding.

Mr. Daniels declared there were more cases of teachers complaining in Saanich than in any other district under his jurisdiction. He said this was probably because Saanich was next to the richer districts of Victoria and Oak Bay, adding, however, that when compared with many other districts in the province, Saanich and its teachers were well off.

ANNUAL MEETING

President of the Victoria Association, British-Israel World Federation, was re-elected by acclamation at the annual meeting of that organization in First Baptist Church Tuesday. Other officers elected were:

Vice-presidents: Major W. Garrard and D. MacKinnon; life hon. president, A. W. Arnpur; treasurer, Morrison; secretary, Miss M. C. Lindsay; bookroom convener, Mrs. E. W. Abraham; librarian, Mrs. F. Blackmore; committee, W. Pilling, R. S. Snape, H. Ward, Mrs. A. E. Cooper, T. Jolly and J. Thompson.

In his report for the year, President Abraham said nothing spectacular had happened, but good progress was made, and a number of outstanding speakers heard during the year.

Librarian Mrs. Blackmore said increasing use was being made of the library, which now has 644 books on its shelves, with new pamphlets and books being added as soon as they are published.

Retiring treasurer MacKinnon's report showed finances sound. The association made no appeals for money, but raised sufficient by tithes, freewill offerings and subscriptions.

Letters of thanks were ordered sent the honorary auditor and the caretaker of First Baptist Church.

7. When this road is completed to Nitinat Lake, thousands of tourists would go up to that beautiful Ocean Beach at Cloose.

8. Thousands of dollars now being spent in straightening our highways, where there is a good road now, would be far better spent on this west coast road under existing conditions today, to protect Port Renfrew and Victoria.

Letters to the Editor

WE CERTAINLY NEED IT NOW

I took a trip up the west coast road last summer and found about 60 miles of this road in fairly good shape. The government has a caretaker there looking after the main cabins and a large amount of tools. This man said it would take about 18 miles more to complete the road to Port Renfrew. If we ever needed this road completed we certainly need it now.

I think the best bet today for the city of Victoria is to have the mayor and city council, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants' Association call a meeting at once to discuss the question of ways and means as to how we can get started towards the completion of this for the following reasons:

1. Port Renfrew, where there is a large amount of business being done, is tributary to Victoria.

2. Should the C.P.R. be compelled to withdraw their boats from the west coast run, Port Renfrew would be shut off entirely from the rest of the world, except by pack train.

3. By the completion of this road, Port Renfrew would have direct connections with Victoria, which could never be blocked, and we could look after all of her business needs.

4. Large fortress could be built in the rocks and timber at Port Renfrew to guard the entrance to the Straits. This we are very likely to need badly within the next few years.

5. This road should be continued on the Nitinat Lake which will make a very fine body of water for a seaplane base. This we are very likely to need badly in the next few years.

6. The $20,000 the Publicity Bureau is asking the city of Victoria to donate to them would be far better spent on the extension of this road to Port Renfrew.

7. When this road is completed to Nitinat Lake, thousands of tourists would go up to that beautiful Ocean Beach at Cloose.

8. Thousands of dollars now being spent in straightening our highways, where there is a good road now, would be far better spent on this west coast road under existing conditions today, to protect Port Renfrew and Victoria.

9. War outlook today tells us very clearly that we must use our best judgment in doing things that will protect us in case of an emergency.

I would be glad to do my part when called upon.

NOT HISTORICALLY ACCURATE

I was sorry to note, in President Roosevelt's inspiring speech, his statement that Japanese ambitions "date from 50 years back." In fact, of course, they date directly from 250 years back. Hideyoshi then affirmed, in accordance with Jimmu Tenno's "Hakko ichi," that Japan's destiny was the domination first of Asia, ultimately of the world.

And what a hope! Students of Japanese history will corroborate this. Hakko ichi means "the eight corners of the universe under one roof." Immediately after this affirmation of policy Japan under the Tokugawa regime voluntarily shut herself off from all world intercourse. But Hideyoshi's statement was never forgotten, and today is Japan's first opportunity, as she thinks, to implement that policy. Elevation of Japanese prestige by persecution of whites within view of other Asiatics must be accepted as a matter of fact.
